COMPLIANCE INVESTIGATES 100 PER CENT WOOD WASTE AS FUEL MIXTURE FOR 56 MW PRINCETON POWER PROJECT

Vancouver, B.C., February 14, 2007 – In keeping with BC’s Provincial environmental objectives, Compliance Energy Corporation (the “Company” or “Compliance”) announces that its subsidiary Compliance Power is investigating the feasibility of converting its 56 Megawatt Princeton Power Project (“the Project”) from a fuel mixture of coal and wood to 100 per cent wood. By using 100 per cent wood, output from the project could be eligible to be classified as BC Clean Electricity under BC Government guidelines. The Project would utilize locally available wood waste and Mountain Pine Beetle killed wood as it becomes available.

Conversion to wood will enable the Project to meet Provincial objectives regarding greenhouse gas emissions. It is anticipated that the investigation will be completed by the end of March 2007. The Company is optimistic that the investigation and the related delay will result in a more attractive project for all stakeholders.

The Project will provide 421,000 megawatt hours of firm energy into British Columbia’s transmission system for 30 years, sufficient electricity for over 40,000 homes; and will help the Province meet its stated electricity self sufficiency goals. The Project site has extensive existing infrastructure including: one large building that will be modified to house the boiler, steam turbine and generator; a 138 KV power line that extends onto the site that will significantly reduce interconnection costs; and water supply facilities necessary for development. The Company is also looking at ancillary businesses to utilize waste heat.

Compliance has also paid off the $3.5 million loan that was payable to Quest Capital Corporation.

Compliance Energy Corporation’s shares trade on the TSX Venture Exchange under the symbol CEC and investor information is available on the Company’s web page at www.complianceenergy.com.
